s. But you won't get those [services]."
 In his interview with The Sun, Wilson noted that opposition parties have been silent on the debt during budget debates. While Wilson defends his record vigorously, his critics in the business community point out that despite years of talk, the only action they've seen is a modest reduction in the annual deficit — from $38 billion in 1984-85 to a projected $30.5 billion in 1991-92.

But Wilson said, during his tenure, he has cut the deficit in half relative to the growth of the econ-
